“Dumb questions are simple questions that probe the obvious, and simultaneously challenge and direct our thinking.”

OBJECTIVES

You will be able to:

1. Describe strengths and challenges associated with including peer support in the organization.
2. Brainstorm new ways to address or overcome challenges with including peer support services.
3. Access resources developed by PeerTAC and its partners to support the inclusion of peer services.

Mental Health

AGENDA

- Panelists share their background with establishing peer programs
- Participants work in breakout groups to respond to three questions on successes and struggles with developing peer programs
- Participants and panelists return to the large group to discuss answers to the small group questions

BREAKOUT ROOMS

1. Random assignment to breakouts
2. Volunteer note taker (report in large room)
3. Three questions:
 - What excites you about providing peer support services?
 - What concerns you about providing peer support services?
 - If you don't currently provide peer support services, what's stopping you?
4. Return to the large group to discuss

Funded by:

Mental Health

REPORT OUT

Themes from each room for the three questions:

- What excites you about providing peer support services?
- What concerns you about providing peer support services?
- If you don't currently provide peer support services, what's stopping you?

What skills and supports do your supervisors, employees and/or peer team need to effectively integrate, utilize, or provide peer support and demonstrate its impact?
